

Jeff Willie's Leadership Philosophy

Whether you are the leader in your home, your school, your church, or your place of business, leadership is service to mankind, service to calling larger than the person, a service willing to sacrifice their needs for the needs of others. Leaders accept responsibility for their actions and make no excuses for irresponsibility. Leaders seek and obtains personal and professional knowledge plus skills in their field of study. Leaders cannot add value to others unless they are willing to add value to themselves. You cannot give what you do not have.

Leaders are servants first; do not ask for the hand until you give your heart to receive a heart. Therefore, leaders are (1) people focused (2) visionaries (3) fosters a growth mindset environment (4) encourages and rewards risk taking (5) respect and develop a productive relationship with each member of their team. Great leaders know the way and show the way. Everything rises and falls with leadership.
