Uncomfortable Conversations

• The advent of the twin pandemics in 2020 have created space for important but often uncomfortable conversations about race, privilege, disparate impact etc. Leadership and diversity expert Marvin Bemby will lead your team in a conversation to unshackle and detangle conversations that are long overdue.

Working While Black

• Fortune magazine asked black employees what they wanted their nonblack coworkers, supervisors, and executives to know about inclusivity in the workplace. Borrowing from his own career in corporate America, leadership expert Marvin Bemby provides not only insights into the challenges Black people face but practical and mitigating solutions.

Myth Busters

• When you see women and people of color, who do you really see? Stereotypes? Extraordinary? What are the invisible barriers for a more inclusive workforce? What is the economic impact of the lack of inclusion? What are the missed opportunities due to implicit bias? Join Diversity expert Marvin Bemby to discover the insidious impact of a lack of inclusion and how we become agents of change.

Influencing Change

• Leadership is influence; nothing more and nothing less. Leadership is not title, rank, or position. With the crises of 2020 there is an urgent need to grow the leader within and influence the outcomes on the world's pressing issues. People respond to one another according to their level of influence. Come learn emotional intelligence indicators that determine your influence and impact.

Inclusive Leadership

• What is diversity? What is inclusion? It is important for an organization, to employ a diverse workforce, which includes people from different backgrounds and with a variety of characteristics. However, it is not enough to make sure that your company has a diverse workforce. Every member of your staff also needs to feel included. Join leadership and diversity expert Marvin Bemby as he teaches you the leadership competencies necessary to effectuate an inclusive workplace.

Another Seat at the Table

Let's be clear... in 2020, diversity is a necessity for every brand and organization that wants to become profitable, remain relevant, and lead their market in the future. How to create awareness – Every employee needs to feel permission to bring their full self to work, including their own personality, experiences, and perspectives. Marvin Bemby will show you:

How to establish empathy – He will show you the direct correlation between empathy and retention (and how much the "empathy gap" is costing companies). How to produce opportunity – Discover where to look for profitable solutions for the companies and clients that you work with. How to build buy-in – This needs to happen at every level of the organization.

Insightful and powerful course that motivates to actively become a person of influence.
