

Nicholas Aretakis Bio

Nicholas Aretakis is an entrepreneur, a high-tech veteran, and the author of Ditching Mr. Wrong: How to End a Bad Relationship and Find Mr. Right. By 30 he was a Silicon Valley millionaire, remained a jet-setting bachelor until the age of 42, when he met and married Ms. Right. After he settled down, one question about the dating scene behind nagged at him: Why do so many great gals settle for men who aren't right for them?

So he began talking to single women, interviewing relationship experts, and observing the singles circuit. This research became the foundation for Ditching Mr. Wrong.

Nicholas received advanced degrees in mathematics at Hobart College and electrical engineering at Columbia University. He believes his tech background gives him a unique perspective on women's dating behaviors and mistakes, saying "most problems, when viewed objectively, have effective solutions."

Nicholas is also the author of the top-selling book, No More Ramen: The 20-Something's Real World Survival Guide. A seasoned media pro, Nicolas has been featured nationally on ABC, and FOX TV, and appeared in the Associated Press, Wall Street Journal, USA Today, Washington Post, New York Post, Los Angeles Times, and Boston Globe. He's also been widely featured online at Fortune Magazine, CNN Money, MSN, MSNBC, and the dating channel at Love to Know.
