

ROME MADISON

THE EVERYDAY SUPERSTAR

Rome Madison is an expert voice on personal and professional reinvention.

Rome is the best-selling author of two books and an audio coaching program. His latest book, Claim Your Star Power!, shares the story of how he and other high achievers overcame personal tragedy and hopelessness to rebrand his image and achieve ridiculous goals.

The first 10 years of Rome's professional life ended in unemployment, bankruptcy and the mental breakdown and subsequent homelessness of his mother. Over the next 10 years, with no background or experience, Rome became a Vice President and expert in the emerging field of cancer genomics (personalized cancer medicine) leading elite talent to create best practices and standards for the industry.

Today Rome speaks to various groups and organizations on how to identify and claim their Star Power to reinvent their self-image or professional identity to create more success in life. His expertise has a positive impact on baby boomers, ex-offenders, students, pro athletes and what he calls salaried entrepreneurs.

Rome has contributed articles to Pose and Rolling Out Magazine. Additional work can be found on his website blog, CNNi, The Huffington Post and various social media platforms.

Rome has extensive experience as a media personality. He served as executive producer and host of the Neo Soul Café music television show, which was syndicated world-wide on Colours TV. Rome also has appeared in numerous commercials and movies in featured and supporting roles.
