Want Results? Get Ed

Show you care, hire a different kind of speaker; select Ed Rigsbee, CSP for your next meeting, he believes:

Ideas Are Just Dreams, Without Implementation!

Business Is About Results, Not Excuses!

Yes, You Can Do Better!

- Do you want to make a positive difference in the lives of your people?
- Do you want your people to perform at the level of their potential?
- Do you want your people to “Just get things done?”
- If you answered yes, you want Ed Rigsbee!

When you select Ed Rigsbee as your next conference, convention or meeting speaker, you have selected to make an important investment in your people; you will demonstrate to your people that you want the best for them. You did more than just get another speaker—you got Ed! He will challenge your people. He delivers his content with wisdom and insight through engaging personal stories, both humorous and emotional, which make a point.

Ed Rigsbee, CSP is President at Rigsbee Research and is one of America's leading authorities on strategic alliances. He has authored three books on alliance relationships: PartnerShift - The Art of Partnering - Developing Strategic Alliances. As a business relationships consultant, author and lecturer, Ed has had over 1,000 of his articles published in magazines, newspapers and journals. To help organizations grow and become even more profitable, he developed the Total Organizational Partnering System for Growth—five key areas for your organization to build internal and external alliance relationships. He has received the Certified Speaking Professional accreditation from the National Speakers Association, one that only about 10% internationally have received. He helps individuals at corporations, trade associations and professional societies to understand, implement and nurture outrageously successful business relationships—the necessary ingredient for your business growth and success.
