BIOGRAPHY: Mike Staver

Mike Staver is a powerhouse keynote speaker, author, and leadership coach who has spent more than 30 years helping leaders and organizations cut through the noise, embrace change, and perform at their best.

Mike often jokes that one of his greatest qualifications is age – because if there’s one thing experience teaches, it’s how to navigate pivots, setbacks, and reinventions. He’s successfully steered his own business through multiple shifts and knows firsthand what it takes to thrive in today’s unpredictable climate. That mix of humor, hard-earned wisdom, and practical strategies is exactly what makes him such a trusted voice on stage.

Known for his quick wit and relatability, Mike has a gift for breaking down complex leadership challenges into simple, actionable steps. His presentations are engaging, entertaining, and most importantly, immediately useful. Audiences don’t just laugh; they walk away with a clear roadmap for improving performance and culture in their organizations.

Over the years, Mike has partnered with leading companies including Federal Express, Miracle-Ear, Mayo Clinic, and Leading Real Estate Companies of the World, to elevate cultures, sharpen leadership, and drive measurable results. His work spans industries, but his sweet spot is leadership, culture, and performance – areas where disengagement, unclear direction, and communication breakdowns can quietly erode success.

In his keynotes, Mike equips leaders to:

- Reignite employee engagement and accountability
- Communicate with clarity and influence
- Build cultures where people and performance thrive

Authentic, entertaining, and actionable, that’s what you get with Mike Staver. If you want your next event to deliver more than motivation, if you want laughter, clarity, and strategies your leaders can implement immediately – Mike will make it happen.
