

Introduction for Sharon Delaney McCloud

Sharon Delaney McCloud calls herself a citizen of the world. She's the daughter of Irish immigrants whose adventures led to them to Kenya and Tanzania where Sharon was born and lived as a young child.

Her travels took her around the world as a member of the Department of Defense's U.S.O. program before Sharon began her career as an Emmy Award winning television journalist covering everything from NASA to healthcare to the Super Bowl. Now, she works with executives and teams on developing their leadership skills through the power of the spoken word.

As the mother of three, Sharon considers that job her most important as she attempts keep all the balls in the air in our fast-paced lives. She's a TEDx Speaker, cancer slayer, Olympic Torch Bearer and a communications pro who inspires audiences on amplifying their impact in business and life.

Please welcome, Sharon.
