

What These Retreats Are

- A combination of behavioral science and psychology
- Real-world leadership application
- Deep self-awareness and regulation practices
- Ethical frameworks for influence and decision-making

The environment is intentionally designed to slow leaders down enough to think clearly about themselves, their influence, and the impact they have on others.

ETHICAL INFLUENCE GLOBAL RETREATS

These 2-3 day immersive retreats move beyond surface-level leadership training and persuasion tactics.

We'll uncover and close the gap between accomplishment and fulfillment.

EIG retreats focus on deep intrapersonal and interpersonal work, one-on-one coaching, group sessions, and experiential breathwork.

What These Retreats Are Not

- Performative leadership or motivational hype
- Manipulation, coercion, or persuasion tricks
- Generic team-building exercises
- Theory without application

Who Is This For?

- High achievers experiencing an ever-growing gap between their net worth and self worth
- Executives, decision-makers, and leaders who want to create results without compromising trust, autonomy, or integrity.
- Organizations seeking trust-based leadership
- Individuals who care how outcomes are achieved, not just that they are

What's the Impact?

- A clearer understanding of how influence truly operates
- Greater emotional regulation under pressure
- Stronger presence and leadership coherence
- Tools for influencing without title, persuasion, or manipulation
- Increased trust, credibility, and love with others
- Language and frameworks they can immediately apply

Unlocking Peak Performance

The Net Worth of Self Worth

At EIG, influence is not about gaining power; it's about using that power to influence people in a way that honors and serves them.
