After a decade lighting up the Las Vegas Strip, Jeff Civilico doesn't just work a room... he owns it. He brings that same presence, polish, and command to corporate events worldwide.

As a professional emcee and keynote speaker, Jeff brings polish, sparkle, and off-the-cuff brilliance—keeping conferences engaging, award shows seamless, and virtual programs anything but boring.

But here's Jeff's real superpower: he knows how to keep everyone aligned around the same event mission, while keeping them energized, laughing, and locked in. With a mix of clean comedy, quick wit, and an innate sense of timing, he transforms meetings into moments people actually remember.

And it's not just what happens on stage. Behind the scenes, Jeff is every planner's dream—working with crews, execs, and speakers to keep things smooth, smart, and right on schedule.

Jeff is your ideal partner for live, virtual, and hybrid events that run seamlessly, stay on track, and create an experience audiences will remember and talk about.

“Jeff didn't just host our event. He became the glue that held the entire program together.”

Recognizing your own influence may be one of the most important personal discoveries you'll ever make. Yet most people go through life unaware of the quiet impact they already have.

Real influence isn't reserved for those with titles, platforms, or power. It shows up in everyday actions, and most people underestimate the impact they already have.

Everyday Influence: Quiet Power That Moves People, Shapes Culture, and Ignites Possibility is a high-impact keynote designed to strengthen presence and help individuals recognize and act on the influence they already have.

This is a research-backed, story-driven, performance-oriented framework that helps people:

- Recognize and own their influence
- Strengthen leadership presence at every level
- Increase engagement and morale
- Reduce burnout by reconnecting to purpose
- Drive a service mindset
- Improve collaboration
- Increase individual and team accountability
- Create culture transformation through daily behaviors

When employees understand that leadership isn't about title—but about proximity, consistency, and presence—they begin to act like leaders.

And when people act like leaders, they become more invested.

Engagement rises.
Ownership increases.
Culture strengthens.

WORK that MATTERS

“WOW!’ Those are the words I heard over and over again. Jeff set the tone and energized everyone as we began the 4 days... Thank you, Jeff!”

–Sue Warfield, President
