Your Conference Connector Keynoter & Workshop Facilitator

Kymerli Speight is an engaging keynoter and skilled facilitator who provides networking tips for conference attendees to put into immediate action. She helps set the tone for your conference to be one of the most connected you've ever experienced. To ensure attendees are able to continue these connections long after the conference is over, by request, Kymerli includes a masterclass breakout session on how to have a great conversation with someone you just met and sets the environment for follow-on conversations.

Conference Networking Becomes a Breeze: Utilize People Skills with Ease

Most conference attendees go to conferences to learn {x} and to network. Most conferences include a time in their agendas to network. Few people know how to network effectively.

Kymerli is often brought in at the beginning of a conference to inspire connection throughout the event. She frequently hears she transformed someone's understanding of what networking is and changed their entire outlook on it. It is not unusual for her to hear how her audiences are utilizing her approach years later.

More Effective Leadership Through Networking: For the C-Suite

What got you there won't necessarily be the same skill set needed to be an effective leader. Now that you have achieved the C-suite role, how does your networking need to change to help you be the best leader you can be?

For 4 years Kymerli was immersed in one of the best leadership laboratories in the US—the AFA. She has worked with some of the best leaders and also learned what not to do from some of the rest. Today, she regularly conducts seminars with some of the military's top leaders. Truly great leaders embody similar people skills.

It's an Inside Job: Networking for Internal Engagement, Employee Retention and Building Trust

Perfect for corporate conferences. Companies are concerned about employee engagement, disengagement, and retention. These particular challenges are evaluated in several SHRM and Gallup surveys as they directly impact innovation and productivity. This conference keynote addresses how companies can decrease these issues through creating a culture of community and connection. Not only does Kymerli inspire and motivate her audience to create a corporate culture of connection, she shares practical examples and tips for immediate implementation.

The Art of the Sale: Become More Known, Liked, and Trusted

Great for conferences where sales is an important topic. If you are interested in long-term relationship sales, her approach, "Build Your Network, the Sale Will Come," is what you have been searching for!

MEET KYMBERLI

Kymberli Speight credits her career success, in part, to her network. In hindsight, she sees how it was her network that opened many doors. Kymberli continues to be amazed by the generosity and social capital of the ordinary person and loves to teach insights she's gleaned from her original research on networking.

Kymberli has jumped out of planes, soloed in a plane, and was the buyer for 36 McDonald Douglas F-15 E fighter jets all by the time she was 28. After active duty, in the AF reserves, she was promoted 2 years ahead of her peers. She has served on multiple business and volunteer boards.

Today, Kymberli speaks at conferences, is a regional leader, serving on the Chapter Leadership Committee for the National Speakers Association, and regularly facilitates workshops for senior military leaders—opportunities made possible by her network. Kymberli holds multiple coaching certifications.

CLIENT FEEDBACK

"Kymberli was a speaker at our Austin HR Conference for an innovative talk for our Human Resources Leaders. Her style is warm and she engaged our 200+ person audience with her unique stories. We would definitely consider her speaking to us again!"

Metha Vasquez, Head of Workforce Readiness
Brainstorming Speaker Series for Austin SHRM

"Kymberli has a genuine talent for reminding us of the power of our relationships and all the ways we can nurture them.

In preparation for our recent Braun & Gresham attorney retreat, she took the time to learn the challenges each attorney had in building their own individual networks. She carefully crafted examples and activities that challenged our team to enhance their listening skills, to engage authentically, and tips to reinforce the right habits - even in this digital age.

I highly recommend Kymberli to any executive or team that can benefit from the inspiration and team-building that she brings
