Knowing Me, Knowing You: Communication for Understanding

How often when trying to communicate our intentions or instructions do we find that what we meant to say was not received as we had intended. Wouldn't it be great if we had better insight into how to best reach each of our staff members, and support them as they needed to reach their optimal potential? Working with the proven T.L.C. model, participants will develop highly intuitive communication skills as they acquire an awareness of the natural tendencies and behaviours of themselves and their teams.

People play an incredibly important role in the creation and support of healthy workplace cultures. By Intentionally promoting wellness habits, and living them out in the workplace, we inherently give permission for others to do the same. The challenge is that too often, we communicate with others as we would want to be spoken to, rather than leaning into the natural strengths of our colleagues. By understanding how to navigate complex challenges and work effectively with team members, participants learn how to move their teams forward in a sustainable, productive way.

WHAT CLIENTS ARE SAYING

Thank you! It was fun, interactive and realistic with options that can be tailored to each individual. All the team feedback I've heard so far has been incredibly positive.

Margaret, CPA Western School of Business

Steven, you are a naturally gifted speaker who engages the audience and keeps them captivated throughout. The content you discussed was incredibly informative and delivered in a way that maintained interest from start to finish.
